SportKAT Expands Headquarters

Vista, CA – July, 2007 - In an effort to accommodate new demand for its growing product portfolio, SportKAT, LLC, a balance therapy equipment company, today announced it has relocated its headquarters to new facilities in Vista, CA. The move will consolidate the company's operations to be completely under one roof.

“With the recent launch of our new innovative Korebalance system, we simply needed more space for manufacturing, quality control, and procurement,” said Damon Lawson, the company's recently appointed CEO. “The larger facility will allow us to streamline our operations and carry more inventory, which will no doubt improve our quality and lead times.”

The company, founded in 1991, most recently had its general offices in San Diego, with manufacturing in both Phoenix, AZ and Vista, CA.

Because a large portion of SportKAT's product portfolio is regarded as a medical device, the company must adhere to stringent manufacturing and testing guidelines as mandated by the U.S. Food and Drug Administration. “Throughout my career, the necessity of working with the FDA can be daunting, and for good reason,” Lawson remarked. “But in the long run, if you comply with the federal due diligence, you'll automatically be a better company because the FDA exists to protect all consumers. From our new headquarters we will insure that we manufacture a safe and effective product, 100% of the time.”

ABOUT SPORTKAT, LLC

For over 16 years, SportKAT LLC has been a pioneer in the development of devices that meet the growing need of balance therapy, training and rehabilitation. The company's product portfolio includes portable and mid-level proprietary machines in addition to its flagship system, the Korebalance. All of the company's products offer strength, flexibility and agility training as well as orthopedic rehabilitation, fall prevention, motor skill training, and therapy for victims of degenerative disease such as multiple sclerosis and Parkinson's. With a rich history of marketing its SportKAT brand primarily within the medical industry, the new Korebalance - engineered with advanced interactive exercise capability - expands the company's reach into the health and fitness arena. Along with software innovations and ergonomic streamlining inspired by the research and development of Korebalance, the company will introduce modernized versions of its original product line to better serve the emerging physical therapy, assisted living, anti-aging and professional/amateur-athlete markets.
